Weekly fire and police log

INCIDENTS

December 1, 6 a.m.

Two hand guns and two boxes of 8 mm shells with an estimated value of $820 were reported stolen from C and B Sporting Goods, 38 8th Ave. Officer Albert Leonard investigated.

December 2, 2:32 a.m.

Officer Frank Hacken arrested 18-year-old Joseph A. Dick, 104 Main St., for possession of alcohol in his car.

December 3

Officer Frank Hacken investigated a breakin at Hornbeck Chevrolet, 1 Dundaff St. Footprints were found at the scene and the door to the parts department was broken into. The only thing reported missing at the time of the investigation were the keys to a black Cadillac parked at the dealership.

Police later received a report of an abandoned Cadillac on Pack Ave. The owner had left the car at Hornbeck's for service, and it was apparently stolen the night of the break-in.

December 4, 7:35 a.m.

Officer Michael Bucci investigated a robbery at J.S. Raub Shoe Store, N.Main St., The thieves caused $400 in damage by breaking a window to steal a $29.99 pair of hiking boots.

December 5

Linda M. Nawrocki, 125 Westgate Dr., was arrested by Officer Richard Zaleski for driving an unregistered vehicle.

ACCIDENTS

December 2, 10 p.m.

Officer Richard Zaleski investigated a three car collision on the corner of River St. and Salem Ave.

The accident happened when a car driven by Gareth D. Griffith, 30 Lincoln Ave., slid on a patch of ice and rear-ended a car driven by Allen M. Laverly, 22 Plum Ave., which then struck the car of Francis G. Lagana, 23 Farview St., which was stopped at the stop sign at the corner.

December 3, 4 p.m.

Rosemary S. DeLucy, 82 Brook St., told officer William Connor that she was driving south on Park St., and that she did not see the car driven by Paula F. Giglotti, 100 Spring St., before the two cars collided on the corner of Park St., and 8th Ave.

December 5, 11:55 a.m.

Sgt. Joseph McDonald investigated a two car collision in Ames Plaza parking lot. Anna T. Kernoschak, 51 Fairlawn Ave., told McDonald she did not see the car driven by Ceil C. Demming of Glyphant before the collided.

December 8, 10:50 p.m.

David J. Tomaine, 79 Lincoln Ave. told officer Robert Leonard that his car hit a wet spot and ran into the car driven by Patrick J. McKenna of Jermyn.

FIRES

December 2, 4:16 p.m.

Firemen responded to a blaze at the John Finan residence, 8 Eastern Ave., which sustained extensive fire and smoke damage. Fire Chief Bill Burrell said that the firefighters did a commendable job of dousing the blaze which was caused by a malfunction of an electric quartz heater.

Leo's lecture was a gift to everyone

The two hours we spent with Leo Buscaglia last Saturday at the Carbondale Area High School probably won't change anyone's life. How could such a short time accomplish that much? There was a feeling of expectations — and anticipation of "something good," as the large gymnasium filled to the rafters with local folks. The lovely "stage" was set with Christmas lights, Christmas flowers and Christmas love.

From the moment that Leo entered from a side door accompanied by Father Joseph Sica, we were suddenly at a family reunion — all four thousand people had become members of a giant family and we were welcoming, not a world-renowned author, lecturer, and celebrity, but a long-lost uncle who had finally come to be with us. We welcomed him with respect, but more than that, the entire gym had become a family living room and were all getting ready to hear our uncle talk to us. We were indeed at that moment - family.

Then the magic began. We met, and loved, in those two short hours, the people of Leo's world. He made us forget, as we listened to him, all about our unpaid bills, arthritis pain, the sick child at home, and even our sadness. Such is the magic of the man who came to Carbondale. During his visit, we laughed, we cried; men and women of all ages were brought together in the great bond of humaness that we share. Yet his message was a simple one - you can change the world - with love, forgiveness and laughter. He made us realize that we do indeed have more power than we realize and in using it we can make a difference in our own lives and those around us.

No one can say it better that Leo himself. His mother - the great "non-melting M&M" - became like our own, teaching us as she did Leo. Things like "Dress nice in case you're in an accident." and on Christmas morning young Leo go no presents because he hadn't been a good boy. She taught him and us.

You earn, you get." One of her most profound lessons was the one she shared on her deathbed as Leo cried at the thought of losing this good woman. She saw his tears, and asked what he was holding on to. In that moment, he "let go" and it has made all the difference. The lesson to be learned here is that we must embrace our personal tragedies as part of the process of life, but we must also let them go - or else they will surely drag us down.

Leo told us about Gladys, the old woman in the home for the aged who constantly feeds the pidgeons despite the threats of the head nurse. Gladys knows the joy of simple pleasures and perhaps she will help us find our own.

Leo's message is simple - become a loving person, develop your full potential and you'll change the world. We start with one call to a friend, a letter to someone who's lonely, a smile toward a stranger. What power we have!

Take time to share your past with your children, says Leo. Sit together as a family and share the sad stories of past hardships and happy tales of days gone by. Children learn from seeing good models in their parents. "Well-balanced adults represent a promise to a child that balance can be achieved," is the sometimes crazy negative, depressing world of today.

Leo reminds us of people in the past who dared to have the courage to be "lovers" and were labeled as fools — St. Joan, St. Francis, Jesus and Buddha — all were misunderstood during their lifetimes.

"The only immortality we have is the good we leave behind." If the good you do today will be forgotten tomorrow, have the courage to do it anyway! Such is the way to change the world in which we live.

Leo realizes, as should we, that the world needs more laughter. His house was full of laughter and as a child he remembers the laughter even though the family was poor. That is because joy is an attitude, and we can choose happiness just as we can choose despair. Why should we choose despair when there is an alternative! Let's look at ourselves and laugh. What a simple message Leo brings — "Let's laugh together!"

"Have the courage to love since love costs nothing to give; you have nothing to lose." A unique man, saying what we may have known all along; yet needing his touch to put it into focus for us. What a Christmas gift Leo Buscaglia gave to each of us who listened to him.

Leo defines a "wonderful day" as one in which he has been able to make life a little better for someone else. Indeed, Leo had a very wonderful day in Carbondale on Saturday.

Perhaps those two hours did change our lives!
